

Reflections Of The Past

By Ruth Dougherty

Back around 1900 this is how the interior of the present-day Community House on Gillette Avenue looked, with its owners, Captain and Mrs. Charles Z. Gillette sitting in the parlor, the front northwest room. Today it is a very plain unadorned meeting room, gone are its Victorian furnishings and the elaborate gardens that surrounded the house. But many children today enjoy the baseball diamonds and grounds, while scouts, Board of Elections and other groups make use of the meeting rooms. The Gillettes' daughter, Ida, was the last to live in the house. She left it to the Episcopal Church Charity Foundation, who in turn sold it to Islip Town.

20. HISTORICAL AND ARCHITECTURAL IMPORTANCE:

The Gillette House was built in 1848 by Captain Charles Z. Gillette on what was then Edwards Avenue, now Gillette Avenue. The house and property was left to the community by the captain's daughter, Ida, and is now known as the Gillette Community House and Park. It is a Designated Town Landmark.

Ida Gillette left the house to The Episcopal Church Charity Foundation who in turn sold it to Islip Town.
