|                   | The Adams House is located on the north side of South Country Road directly west of the Southward Ho Country Club house of which it is presently a part. the large barn and other outbuildings are located to the north near large lawn and paved parking field areas used by  |
| 18.               | the country club. OTHER NOTABLE FEATURES OF BUILDING AND SITE (including interior features if known): The Adams House is a large, 2½ story, hip roof, stucco house with a large diagonal wing to the NW. The S. facade features a large semicircular portico and round arch windows with keystone motif on the ground story and iron balconies at the second story windows. The east facade features a small semi-circular balcony with a large round arch window above. |

|                   | The Thomas Adams estate originally included a high-style Gothic Revival residence with a steep gabled roof. Apparently this was replaced with the present stucco mansion between 1901 and 1907.  |
|                   | The barn and cottage No. 2 seem to remain from the earlier estate period. Cottage No. 1 appears to be earlier.   |
| 21.               | Thomas Adams made a fortune in chewing gum. The house was later owned by his daughter, Mrs. George Ellis. The house is an example of the Spanish style popular in the first decade of 1900. SOURCES:   |
